

SO, YOU KNOW THAT THING

You've Been Wanting and Meaning To Do...

...THIS IS IT

Sometimes, it's a whisper. Other times, an overwhelming urge. But no matter where we are in life, it's always there. That innate desire to do Something Big. Something Meaningful. Something Memorable. Something that makes a difference for the better.

It's the calling that unites us all.

When you become a partner with Habitat for Humanity of Martin County, you answer this calling on your heart. And then you become the answer to someone's prayers.

Like the prayers of Elias and Ana. For far too long, before tucking their three little children in at night, they stood atop kitchen stools and tacked sheets on the ceiling to keep termites from falling on their little ones' heads as they slept.

Such is life in this decrepit trailer park, notorious for its dilapidated structures, dangerous electrical wiring, boarded-up windows and yet — somehow — exorbitantly high rents.

Today, thanks to our partners — and their own "sweat equity" — Elias and Ana are moving their children into a new Habitat home, in a new neighborhood and into a new life.

Our partners enter these true stories in the middle, when they're filled with want, worry and woe. Our partners then help these local families turn the page and write new stories with happy beginnings.

Our partners bring our mission — "Seeking to put God's love into action ... to build homes, communities and hope" — to fruition.

Our partners — like you — heard the calling on their hearts. And they answered. Now they're helping change lives for their better. And that's changing their life for the better, too.

That is really doing Something. Go ahead. Turn the page. You just might be turning the page in your own life story, too.

"Unless the Lord builds the house, those who build it labor in vain."
Psalm 127: 1
